The Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive (AIFMD), is an EU Directive which came into force in July 2013. It prescribes rules for the authorisation, operating conditions and transparency obligations to be applied to Alternative Investment Fund Managers (AIFMs) and for the marketing of Alternative Investment Funds (AIFs) to professional investors throughout the EU. The Directive currently offers a marketing 'passport' to compliant EU AIFMs of EU AIFs. The AIFMD regulates AIFMs; it does not regulate AIFs directly.

The AIFM is responsible for ensuring compliance with the Directive in respect of each AIF it manages, even where such compliance may be outside of its control. The AIFMD requires all EU AIFMs to be authorised by the regulatory authority of the EU Member State in which they are incorporated and, subsequent to authorisation, to comply with a number of on-going obligations.
